FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A Bright Light Emerges Within the Embattled Condo Hotel Industry

Disgruntled owners and potential renters find solace in new condo-hotel management company.

Condo-hotel owners who originally purchased their units for financial gain only to see their investments sour within the current harsh economic and real estate environment have found a beacon of hope in a new company designed to maximize their rental profits. Jet Luxury Resorts, the premiere national 4 and 5 star condo-hotel management company, has developed an owner centric model that maximizes the earning potential of the given investment property and works solely for the best interests of the owner.

In the past, condo-hotel owners have faced rental programs bogged down by hidden fees and property managers and developers that presented conflicts of interest. Jet Luxury Resorts offers a better solution with a freedom that allows the company to remain competitive within the market and satisfy the owner's ability to increase their occupancy and rental revenue.

In so doing, Jet Luxury Resorts also provides a tremendous rental option to the travel community.

"We can provide high-end luxury to renters at more affordable prices which previously they could not afford." States Steve Aylsworth, COO of Jet Luxury Resorts. "This influx of condo-hotel inventory that is individually owned and was appraised at high prices is of tremendous quality. Due to our economy, these units must be rented out at competitive market prices-- making it a win-win for owners and renters."

Over the past sixteen months, Jet Luxury Resorts has energized the condo-hotel industry. The company brings owners and renters together to work in the owner's best interests by providing greater income to offset their investment while simultaneously bringing high quality, yet affordable product to the marketplace.
